From Rev. Dr. George B. Cheever.

The history of Professor Weiss is rely valuable. The volumes are in every way instructive and important.

From Rev. Dr. Thomas De Witt.

I esteem these volumes as among the most valuable of the present day, and I doubt not they will make a like impression on the public mind, and command a large patronage.

From Rev. Dr. Honey V. D. Johns, Baltimore.

The hacts are well arranged, and the work is no less valuable for the principles it illustrates than for the facts by which they are illustrated.

From Rev. Dr. H. A. Boardman, Philadelphia.

The work is evidently the fruit of great research, and is written with candor, vivacity and courage.

From Rev. Dr. Henry V. D. Johns, Baltimore.

The plan of the history will commend it, not only to the clergy, but the laymen of our country—to the statesman, her scholar, the artisan, and the friends of human prouross.

From the Rev. Dr. Alexan Digby Campbell, Montreal.

It would be something borde

From Rev. Dr. Leonard Bacon, Conn.
One great merit of the author is, that he rises above the level of mere particanship; and while he does not compromise his sympathles with the oppressed, he writes more as a historian than as a Huguerot.

From Professor Wayland.

No American citizen should be ignorant of its contents. The book is eminently one for the present times, and ought to be in every library.

O'HNIONS O' LEADING JOURNALS.

From Blackwood's Magazine.

It is a valuable addition to the political and religious history of an important period, and as such it will be prized by future historians. It will become a favorite companion to D'Aulyine's History of the Reformation.

From the New York Quarterly Review.

A production of squal interest and value to the student of history, and to the general reader. It fills an important place in the colonial history of the Reformation.

The work itself is admirably transacted, and as an original work ranks with D'Aubigne's Reformation in the list of Protestant history.

From Punnam's Magazine.

One of the most acceptable additions made to our current literature. The history has already become amous in Europe.

From the New York Observer.

This admirable work has justly commanded immediate attention, and its popularity ass graphic history will be more widely extended as its merits become known.

From the National Magazine.

The volumes are invaluable to the historical student, soul stirring to the Christian reader, and deeply interesting to the lovers of romance. It will take the place among our standard books.

From the New York Evangelist.

It relates to one of the most stirring and touching segments of the whole circle of French history; and is excented with an impartiality sympashy, and learning that leaves nothing more to be desired.

The work is written in a very graphic style, and the translation has been made with peculiar felicity. The publishers have spared no pains to give it every attraction. It is singularly adapted to take a strong hold on the popular mind.

From the New York Evaning Post.

It will take its place beside the successful history of D'Aubigne, to which, in spirit and treatment, a bears some resemblance. No American needs to be reminded of the value of such a record.

This work is worthy the fame it has acquired. It is a work that will ever be dear to the immost heart of Protestantism. Fron. Weiss, as a writer of history, will rank with the highest names.
